

Betty Lovitt
English War Bride
Scythia
June 15, 1945

I am a War Bride. I married my husband, Lamont Lovitt, of the West Nova Scotia Regiment, on March 9th, 1942. A son was born to us on January 27th, 1943 shortly before my husband left England for the Sicily & Italy campaign. We did not see him again until the day we landed in Canada, June 15th, 1945. He had returned to Canada on rotation leave via New York in March of 1945. So we were reunited at Pier 21 the day we landed, as my husband was living in Dartmouth at the time. The trip had taken 9 days. There were 28 mothers and 28 children in the one long cabin, sleeping in double bunks; All the children were under 3 years old, some infants. Not your luxury cruise!

We lived 3 months in Dartmouth, then moved to Port Le Tour, our present address, where the two of us still live. We had 4 more children, in all, 3 boys & 2 girls. We now have 9 grandchildren & 5 great grandchildren.
